Citizens Invited to March 17 City Hall Remodel Open House

The public is invited on March 17 from 4:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. to view the improvements made to Snohomish City Hall as part of a recent remodel project for the 78-year-old former U.S. Post Office building in the city's historic downtown.

The project added 1,020 square feet of new office space in the rear of the building and new paint, carpet and window coverings to both older and newer sections. An expanded meeting room suitable for some public meetings was also completed at City Hall, which is at 116 Union Avenue.

The newly completed work is the most significant remodel of Snohomish City Hall since 1997. The recent project also included upgrading to new seismic code some 430 square feet of the building that had been part of the earlier remodel. The City purchased the building in 1984 from the U.S. Government.

"City Hall is the public's building, and on behalf of our citizens we're proud to be stewards of this historic building in Snohomish," said Mayor Karen Guzak. "However, this is also the place where many of our City employees work, and we have been looking forward to improving this space for many years. We're glad to have finally found the resources to complete these overdue improvements."

The Citizens Advisory Committee for the City's Strategic Plan recommended in 2006 that City Hall be either improved or replaced, and this recommendation was repeated by the advisory committee again in 2012 when the Strategic Plan was updated.

The 5,400-square foot remodel, including 1,020-square feet of additional space, was completed for approximately $420,000. Snohomish architect Joshua Scott, who is also a member of the City's Planning Commission, developed the design for additional space.

The 1937 building was constructed to serve originally as Snohomish's U.S. Post Office, and it contains an industrial art mural that is believed to be a Works Progress Administration (WPA) project that was typical of many postal offices constructed during that period.

Traffic Signal Revision at Maple Avenue and Second Street

Left turn signals have been installed on Second Street at the Maple Avenue intersection to improve the north and southbound turning movements. This change will improve the traffic flow efficiency of this intersection. Over the past few years the City has discussed the installation of a left turn signal at this intersection, but due to concerns of additional weight loads to the existing traffic mast arm and pole this installation was delayed.

A typical protected/permitted left turn signal head will have four or five lights. A protected left turn signal is indicated by the solid green arrow. A permitted left turn signal is indicated by a flashing yellow arrow or solid green ball. For example, at the SR 9/US 2 interchange there is a four light traffic signal head and at Bickford Avenue/30th Street there is a five light traffic signal head. The additional lights and larger housing adds more weight to the traffic mast arm and pole.

A three light protected/permitted left turn signal head was installed at Second Street/Maple Avenue that has a similar weight to the previously existing signal head. This allowed the installation to occur without the need to redesign and replace the existing traffic mast arms, poles and signal controller cabinet. The bottom signal light is a combination flashing yellow arrow and solid green arrow.

There was no change to the signal heads on Maple Avenue. Although the left turn signal on Second Street permits the left turn movement, please proceed cautiously through the intersection and look all ways before entering the intersection.
